From Our Deacon

Our first reading this week comes from one of the strangest and most enigmatic books in the Bible: Ecclesiastes. Also called Qoheleth, the narrator's name, this book seems more like a freewheeling, postmodern diatribe than the inspired Word of God. It is a deeply relevant biblical text for our cultural moment.

Qoheleth is trying to find himself; he's searching for answers to the big questions: what is the good life? Why are we here? Questions of this caliber are not satisfied easily, and our narrator is full of angst, ennui and confusion. He's been there, he's done that, and he's bored with it all: "All things are vanity!" (Eccl 1:1).

Qoheleth has looked for wisdom and happiness amid success and fun: "I became great and surpassed all who were before me ...I kept my heart from no pleasure" (Eccl 2:9-10). But life is difficult and joy is ephemeral, he warns. He claims to have it all figured out, but admits he's struggling—"I detested life"—and his ludicrous worldview can be summarized as, "Don't be too good or too evil" (Eccl 2:17, 7:16-17).

Why should we listen to this guy?

Ecclesiastes is part of the Old Testament's wisdom literature. To understand these unique books—which include Job, Proverbs, and the Song of Songs, among others—we need an interpretive key: "the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom" (Prov 9:10). Qoheleth has been asking important questions without reference to God and has arrived only at self-serving answers.

At book's end, Qoheleth finally gets it: "Remember your creator in the days of your youth" (Eccl 12:1). The Author of Life has great ideas for how to live well! His main idea is the Golden Rule: love God and love your neighbor.

To put it bluntly, your life is not about you. My life is not about me. Having been loved infinitely by God, we are called to love God and neighbor in return. To live this way is to be "rich in what matters to God."

God Bless. Deacon Nugent
