"Now I know that there is no God in all the earth, except in Israel. Please accept a gift from your servant."

The lepers in both the Old and New Testament readings share one thing in common, apart from their disease; they are foreigners seeking a cure. While Naaman needs some convincing at first, he recognizes the power of God working through Elisha (himself a Samaritan!) The irony of a Samaritan curing a great commander is out-matched by a Messiah from Nazareth. ("Can any good come from Nazareth?")

Jesus literally crosses boundaries, geographically and socially. We don't know who the lepers were, but it's important to note Luke mentions just one: who "fell to his feet and ... thanked him ... was a Samaritan." This unclean person, whose Judaism was poisoned by an historic intermingling with gentiles and pagans, is the only one who recognizes the great gift Jesus has bestowed.

These themes of discipleship and the right response to this call replay time and again in Luke's Gospel. Those to whom much was given, were the last to appreciate the gift. How often can that be said of us?

How often do we "hoard" our gift, sharing it with only those we deem to be the right kind of beneficiaries? Do we open our hearts to the stranger in our community, in our church who may not look, sound or act like us? Do we feel we have the "correct" manner of worship and others do not?

Where are the margins in our souls that Jesus needs to cross in order to enter our hearts? What boundary have we erected to keep Jesus away? More importantly, do we even realize that we have created these barriers?

In the end, what Christ requires of us is love. He demands that we "go in peace," (2Kings 5:19). This isn't a passive directive, but rather an active "stand up and go ..." (Luke 17:19) and show the world that your "faith has saved you."

Be that disciple that crosses the boundaries of hate and mistrust. Be the call that others may hear.

I look forward to seeing you at Oktoberfest this Saturday!

God Bless. Fr. Posey

Strategic Plan Update:

The Plan Implementation Committee met last week to review our progress to date. Our faculty and administration has already been hard at work with standardizing forms and communications. Parents now receive all important documents in the Wednesday Go Home Folder instead of throughout the week. Teacher pages have been standardized making information gathering simpler. A full-time dedicated Resource teacher has been hired; additionally, one of our faculty members received accredited training in special education.

Continued work on creating an alumni database, a new family focus group, a tuition fact sheet, and educational support network are among slated goals for the next six months. We are grateful to the following who graciously volunteered to assist the administration and serve on the Implementation Committee: Ed Coleman, Chris Caulfield, Genevieve McCarthy Kelly, John Kelly, and Stephen Hughes. Additional members: Elizabeth Beaulieu, Mary Ellen Landry, Chris Hughes along with Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Thomas, and Fr. Posey.
